Chapter 1

(January 18, 2020 ≡ Saturday)

Kiryuuin's Manor

Day after day, The sisters had defeat their mother from dominating the world and covering it from Fibers. Many have lost their lives around the world and it cause great distraction to each nation. The Africa have lost their homes and places and was under the donations of UN.

Countries that was mostly affected by the Covers were China, India, Japan, North Korea and Russia. With all the scientists around the world, made their way to investigate the distraction. However no results were found in each evidence of the distraction. It didn't last long on searching for the remaining of Life Fibers and constantly give up.

The result to the Life Fibers scattering around the globe vanished. Not even a single string could be seen in the atmosphere. The death caused, one hundred forty million people died from the sudden incidents of the world being dominated by the Covers. Now that the world is in Peace, they started to heal from all the great cause by Ragyo Kiryuuin. The Kiryuuin Sisters did felt a pang of guilt after hearing this news.

In the back of the Kiryuuin Mansion, Two female figures sat in the coffee table outside in the garden. They had tea and British breakfast in the table along with a butler serving them. Satsuki took a small sip of her tea with a calm expression.

Ryuko had her mind wandered in the midst with tea in her hands. Soroi noticed the younger sister of Kiryuuin dazing off and guilt can be seen in her eyes.

"Is something the matter, Miss Matoi?" The butler asked in concern while giving a glance to Satsuki who placed her tea down in the table. "If the news affects you, then you don't have to worry. The UN will take care of it." Satsuki mentioned leaning back at her chair.

Ryuko's eyes shift to the side with a frown. "Yeah...you're right."

"By the way, how's college life?" It was Satsuki's turn to asked the raven haired teen. Ryuko's expression went back to neutral and a genuine smile formed in her lips. Ryuko went college to prepare for the future and live a normal life with her sister by her side.

Satsuki have taken her in and they both get along very well. Other than that,she can be stressful sometimes because of Ryuko's stubborn behavior. But she still dearly love her sister.

Satsuki took the REVOCs conglomerate company and rebuild the Honnoji Academy as a prestigious college school only for the best of the best who wants a better future success. The heavy responsibilities were a burden but she can manage it all and solve the matters of the company.

"It was great. Mako and I are in the same dorm room. The exams are quite hard." Ryuko motioned all the things she experienced on college. Satsuki have seen the beauty of this world in peace and was relieved that her sister gets to live in peace and deserves to rest.

"Satsuki, can we visit the laboratory?"

Satsuki snapped out of reality and frown replaced the calming expression. What makes Ryuko to wanting to visit the lab? She should be leaving the past behind and move on to the future.

"And what makes it necessary to visit that sickening lab?"

Ryuko puffed her cheeks and crossed her arms. "I just want to know where did Ragyo and Dad experimented me." She reasoned out which made the older sister hardened her expression even more. Satsuki begin to feel drowsy and heavy feel inside her chest. She coughed a few times which didn't go unnoticed by Ryuko.

"Sis, you Okay? That cough sounds ill." The raven haired teen asked in concern. Satsuki raised her hand in a matter of respect and shook her head.

"No, I'm fine..." she takes deep inhale and sighing to calm down. Her hearts starts to quickened the pace of beating.

"Soroi, escort my sister to the lab. I'll be in my room." Satsuki stood up from her chair and begin to cough once more but continued to walk inside. Soroi let out a sigh which Ryuko turned to him. "How long has she been coughing?" Ryuko asked.

The sound of her cough were deep and was abnormally ill. Sounds like she has Tuberculosis but Ryuko hardly believe that she has one. Both were now concern for Satsuki. "A week or so, miss." Soroi replies and Ryuko stood up from the chair to follow Soroi behind as he leads the way to the laboratory.

"I think Satsuki needs to take medical check up. Maybe I'll pursue her later?"

"It is convenient of you, Lady Ryuko."

Both halted in front of a large double doors. Soroi inserted the key on the knob and twisting both knobs to push open the doors revealing a dark spacious room. The mechanics and machines were covered with white fabric from dust and Ryuko was troubling to find the switch to turn on the lights.

"I'll be back and check on Lady Satsuki."

"Please do."

Ryuko walked forward and grabbed the covers. She pulled it revealing the dust to puff in the air making her cough and sneeze. In front of her was large table containers and machines with wires inside. Ryuko caught a glimpse of an old dried blood on it and cringe to find worms eating up.

Turning her head, she found a trap door beside the machine. To her curiosity, she approached it and tap the red button to the side. The trap door opened revealing an endless whole and the smell of rotten blood made her gag. "Gosh, this is probably where Ragyo dump her experiments!"

Ryuko wandered around the lab for a moment to find some useful things related to the experiments before. She came across the large circle stadium with a book lying down on the floor. She picked it up and flipped it to the side.

Ryuko jolted when a flash of light and a voice recorded echoed the whole room. She turned her head and her eyes widened. In the stadium was a hologram man dressed in fancy white suit along and with white hair spike up to the front. Serious face can be shown along with his fierce blue eyes.

[Good day to you, my name is Soichiro Kiryuuin. A scientist and the husband of Ragyo Kiryuuin.]

Ryuko slowly approach the hologram and stared up at the man with wide eyes. Could this be...her dad before?

[I am one of the founders of Life Fiber along with my Wife. And I believe that Humans and Life Fibers can be great allies to protect the world]

"Dad...?" She slowly reach out her hands to touch the hologram and tears formed in her eyes. "I miss you, dad..." Before she could speak something —

[...for the failed experiment subject, the person will develop Fiber Cancer at the age of 19 to 30.]

"Lady Ryuko!! Lady Satsuki has fainted!" One of the servants burst inside the laboratory with horrific expression and panted to catch on her breath. This made Ryuko turned to her back and her geared shaped orbs turned to slits and quickly run out of the laboratory.

"SATSUKI!!!"

Running down the hallways with loud and aggressive footsteps, Ryuko's heart beat quickened and the look of panic appeared in her face. Turning from hallways to hallways, she finally approach her room and burst in revealing the Elite Four stunned in surprise.

Satsuki was being held by Soroi and she quickly run up to her and knelt down to hold her in her arms. "Sis?! Sis, are you okay!? Wake up what's wrong!?! " Tears were threatening to fall in her cheeks. Blood drip down Satsuki's lips and red veins like Fibers visible in her skin. What makes Ryuko panic? Did the hologram told something that warns her about failed experiments?

Ryuko aggressively glance at the Elite Four members.

"Call the ambulance NOW!!!"

Gamagoori didn't hesitate and dialed the number. Nonon was in front of her to checked the temperature fever for Satsuki. Clearly her eyes widened in horror and tears threatened to fall. "4-40?!" She shrieked.

All of them panicked at the abnormal temperatures Inumuta fastened his type in the computer to check the results. "Ryuko, Satsuki's illness is related to Life Fibers!"

"Then we should take her to the hospital! Call Mikisugi for this!"

"Right!"

When the ambulance came, Ryuko and Soroi went inside ambulance with the paramedics settling Satsuki inside with dextrose inserted inside her. Ryuko held her hand tightly filled with sorrows and searching for hope for her sister to be okay. "Please be okay.."

The ambulance closed the back door and drove off as the Elite Four rushes in current Nudist Beach Base.

In the Laboratory, the hologram shut down leaving a few words echoing in the hallways.

[...beware of the Fiber Cancer, it'll lead to worst and deaths to every failure test subjects...]

Chapter 2

[April, 20 2020 ≡ Monday]

Honnoji Academy

"Wow...Just...Wow..."

A boy stood in front of a prestigious elegant school while carrying a stack of books and papers in his hands. His messy black hair was blown by wind gently and his violet geared eyes traces around the area. Students were peacefully hanging out together.

He wore the school's male uniform along with a white lab coat presenting that he works in Shimomura's Laboratory with his father. He looked average and neutral like any decent human being. And so he started to walk inside the academy with a huge smile in his face.

Yuichiro Shimomura, a 20 year old male who is in third years of his college life. He works with his father at the laboratory and leading on his way to the future to become a successful scientist. It was his passion since childhood and would be looking forward to graduate.

Putting all his stuff inside the locker, Yuichiro turned to the hallways to walk to his first subject. All of sudden...

"YUICHIRO!!"

He was met with an aggressive tackle of a hug only to meet Mako in a different school uniform. Okay, now what the hell is she doing here? "M-Mako, aren't you supposed to be at your school?" He questioned turning to look at the back. A huge smile was plastered on Mako's face.

"Oh, I came here to meet a friend of mine!" She says and got off to fully face the young man. Mako and Yuichiro were acquaintance due to Yuichiro's father admiring the skills of Bazarō Mankanshoku in medical. As of, those organic medicine that is used to cure patients back in the floating island of Honno city.

Yuichiro has to get some medicine examples from Bazarō and probably Mako was here to deliver it. The young man blinked when Mako took out a small brown box from her chest and handed it to Yuichiro. As expected for Mako Mankanshoku...

"Here are the examples of the medicines. Anyways gotta go! See ya, Yusan!" Mako dashes off in the hallways and disappeared in sight. Yuichiro opened the box that was handed to him and a smile formed on his lips. The test tubes were filled with blue liquid along with weird chemical ingredients inside. It does look healthy but weird.

He let out a happy sigh and begin to proceed on his first subject. The box was secured in his arms but little did he know, a man in black suit hid behind the tree watching him as he walks inside the classroom. Frown was displayed in his eyes and faded in the place with a remote in his hands.

Takano Oharu Private Hospital

Ryuko marched herself in the hallways of the hospitals with a needing necessities in her arms. Frown and worried sigh was formed in her face. Behind her was the family butler, Soroi with a bag of medicine in his hands.

Medical fees and hospital expenses wasn't a problem to them. Satsuki's life is the problem which caused the whole group to be concern and worried at her condition. The older sister was put to rest and coma and was being watched over by the nurses and doctors. They run a few test on her by taking a few blood and checking to red-ish orange string attached on her skin.

It was positive that Satsuki Kiryuuin has a cancer. An Unknown cancer that couldn't be identified by the doctors and nurses. However Satsuki is in a verge of death but still fighting for her life. Ryuko would often stay by her side. She wouldn't know what would be her life again without her sister right beside her. The cycle of life and death were in a spiral and taking over the soul of Satsuki. Life is the blessing and Death is to be the Curse.

Ryuko and Soroi halted in front of the room. She twisted the door knob and opened it revealing two nurses and one doctor. In their hands be seen as antibiotics and spoon being fed to Satsuki. The previous Elite Four members seemed to be glaring at the doctor and the nurses and this hit her to realization.

"What are you doing?" Ryuko asked with a stern look and approaching the doctor who just recently fed Satsuki with antibiotics. The doctor, Mr. Grinch turned glance and smiled at young ravenette. "Ah, Ms. Matoi. I came here to check on Satsuki. We also gave her a few antibiotics to her—" before he could finish his sentence, Ryuko flipped the cart of useless of antibiotics out of frustration and annoyance. She also noticed that each antibiotics were not for cancers and this made her even more furious. Her eyes adverted to the doctor and glared. "Is there any other medicines that could cure her?! For past few weeks, you've been feeding her antibiotics!" She yelled.

The nurses calmly picked up the cart and the broken bottles of medicines. Mr. Grinch simply smiled at the glaring delinquent. Gamagoori stepped in with an authority look in his face. "Sir, I have also noticed that." He says. The other three stepped in with a nod.

"I have checked her condition and there are no positive results regarding to her cancer." Inumuta told them with a sigh and looked up from his laptop. Uzu then eyed each of them with a glare. "Don't tell me you don't have a cure for this cancer." He stated which made the doctor and the nurses stunned and frozen in their place. They were caught.

Just by the look on their faces, Ryuko kicked the door open and pointed a finger directing for them to get out. "Out." Ryuko demanded with her bangs covering her expression. When there were no movements but stares, she raised her voice gesturing them to get out.

"I said, GET OUT!!!"

Mr. Grinch and his assistances walked out of the door calmly and closed it carefully behind them leaving the Elite Four, Soroi and Ryuko in silence. All of them sigh and Gamagoori came to approach the young maiden. "We'll be going too. Take care of her, Matoi." With one last glance, all four of them left room silently. Soroi stood there beside Satsuki as he watch Ryuko in despair.

She had her head hang down. Ryuko fell in her knees in defeat and trembled. Big droplet of tears fell from her jeans and she gritted her teeth to sustain the yell. Soroi knelt down to comfort Satsuki's younger sister.

"Lady Ryuko..."

"How...am I going to save her?"

This made the butler even sigh as the Ryuko begin to cry out loud. When all of a sudden an idea and a thought came to her mind. Inumuta did mention that Satsuki's illness was related to Life Fibers and that Mikisugi is under the process on searching for more details about it.

Soroi helped Ryuko up as a dark look consumed her face. She also remembered the hologram appeared in the Kiryuuin's laboratory, stating about the cancer. Now how can she not know this sooner? With all the idea running through her head...

"Then, I'll be the one to cure her."

Soroi was surprised from the sudden deep dark tone in her voice. The dark shades of the room consume her aura and making the whole area intense. Her face quickly soften when she turned and caress her sister's cheek.

Satsuki's breath was calm and light as a feather. It made her sigh in relief and quickly muttering few more words. Soroi and Ryuko turned their backs and headed outside the room and now walking down the hallway.

"Is there something in your mind, Lady Ryuko?"

"I know now how to solve the problem. Medicines are specifically experimented on laboratory."

"Are you going to visit the laboratory?"

"Is there any specific laboratory partnership with my dad before? The Matoi family name is only a undercover name you know?"

Now thinking about it... Soroi went silent for a moment and tried to dig onto the past before. On his early age, Soichiro Kiryuuin did know and have a lot of partnerships in laboratories in Japan which is why Kiryuuin is empire for Life Fiber before. That is the time where he met Ragyo and married her because of the Life Fibers existence.

"I know which laboratory could help."

"There is?"

"Yes, it's been so many years since the last visit of lord Soichiro."

"Then I'll visit the place. Where is the location?"

"In the outskirts of Osaka. From what I remember, you need a birth certificate to enter that laboratory. They are tightly secured to new visitors." Soroi explained and entering the limo. Ryuko decide to sit at the front seat to know more information about the laboratory.

"Then do I have to change my last name for that? As much as I hate the family name..."

"Yes you need to change it. And as you are part of the Kiryuuin, Satsuki would recommend you to follow the etiquette of every Kiryuuin before entering the lab." Soroi engine the limo and drove off. Ryuko on the side, slouched and sigh. There are so many shits that she needs to learn.

"Fine..."

Shimomura's Residence

[9:30 P.M]

Yuichiro has himself enjoying in mixing the acid and the other ingredients to the cylinder. Turning on the stove, he placed the frying pan on the top of the stop and pouring a bit of water.

He just got his first assignment on his first day of college! Adjusting his glasses, Yuichiro turned the page of the notebook and mumbling the ingredients for the chemical. While waiting for the water to boil, he hummed a time to himself and turning the television on and sat on the couch near his bed.

The news reporter explained another one of the patience died in the unknown cancer which they showed an examples of a dead body while censoring the picture.

["32 victims died in this cancer and most of them were from the rich family. On this serious cause..."]

Yuichiro jolted at loud knock coming from his door. He quickly got out of the couch to open the door revealing his father with a huge smile in his face. He has short black hair with white hair outlines and green eyes. There were wrinkles on his face as his age were matching him.

Yuan Shimomura, father of Yuichiro Shimomura.

"Hey dad!" His son gently embrace him and let go of him afterwards. "What makes you come to my room with happy face though?" Yuichiro gleefully asked with a playful grin formed in his lips. Yuan got inside as they both sat in the couch ignoring news in the television.

"Son, I know you are unfamiliar with the family name of Kiryuuin. Tomorrow, Soichiro's daughter would be visiting the laboratory tomorrow!" Yuan told him and ruffling his messy locks. Yuichiro was confused with the happy nature of his father side. What makes him so happy about it?

Seeing Yuichiro's puzzle look, Yuan smiled once more. "I got a call from the family butler and announcing the arrival of Soichiro's daughter in the lab. It's be so many years since the last visit of my friend here and I'm aware of that he has two daughters."

"Then who's visiting?"

Yuan calmly closed his eyes remembering the time that Satsuki visited the Shimomura's residence which made him surprise but didn't get the chance to ask on where was Soichiro been and that he herd that there is another child that was born in the Kiryuuin. Well it means, the younger sibling of Satsuki would show up tomorrow!

Satsuki did inherit the mother's beauty and Yuan could say the family would be a dazzling beauty. He could not wait to meet Soichiro's second daughter!

Yuichiro tilt his head when he saw his father spouting nonsense until,

"I was hoping the Satsuki's younger sibling would be showing up. I never herd of her name not being mentioned."

"Well then, do I have to be present tomo—"

"Of course!! I've been waiting and planning to find a suitable Kiryuuin wife for you!"

Yuichiro shot his father a deadpanned look. He never agreed to any marriages before and he suck at finding a girl to date him. This sudden mention made him shook his head. "Dad, no. I don't want to get married yet." He told him and inching away from him.

"But wouldn't that be good to form another partnership on the Kiryuuin?"

"I never agreed to that. I am capable on running this laboratory on my own. Thank you very much!"

"Well, at least be present tomorrow?" Yuan pleaded. Yuichiro knew that his father is prone to being childish even if he was at this age. Not wanting to let down his father, he just agreed and nodded his head. "Okay..."

Yuan threw his arms around him and ruffled his hair as they both share laugh. "Thank you, son. I knew you would be the one and only son that I could ever rely on." Yuan caress his son's black locks while smiling. Yuichiro grinned.

"I won't let you down, dad."

Shimomura's Laboratory

[10:56 A.M]

Yuichiro prepared himself in the mirror and putting on a white lab coat. He neatly combed his hair to look professional and cleaned the lenses of his hair.

All members of the lab were already outside preparing for the arrival of a Kiryuuin. He hated the fancy thoughts of Kiryuuiins on how they would be looking all luxurious and standing all mighty. His father did mentioned that most Kiryuuin's loves to look down on people and it was best for him to look professional in front of them.

He hated the thought of how would the arrival would be going and expecting she would throw some insults and called them peasants. That thought made him furious. He have heard that Satsuki got the beaming dazzling light from his mother and was looking down on people. That until that weird floating island ended the whole damn career.

So shall he expect what is going to happen. He would definitely scold and have the authority whenever the visitor would insult one of the workers. The workers were in need of everything and was paid highly. Tensing up at one of the workers calling him,

"Sir, it's time."

Yuichiro turned fully face and exited the room. Using the elevator to get down and opened to the lobby, revealing decorations and workers lining up.

As expected to every Kiryuuin's needing a grand welcome... he doesn't have to expect if the Kiryuuin is dressing up a very revealing outfit. That disgust him.

Yuichiro walked up to his father as Yuan smiled and greeted him. Before he could say anything else, he saw the limo parked outside the building through the automatic glass door. He put on his best authority look and his fist clenching. Yuan smiled and whispered with a bit of excitement showing in his face.

"There she is..."

Yuichiro looked puzzle at his father and quickly shifted his eyes at the limo.

Woman at his age came out of the limo with a butler helping her. She even tripped a little but quickly got a help. Yuichiro thought it was funny, but as soon as the figure of a woman came into a clear view, his eyes widening slightly.

She has shorter black hair with a red streak poking out and was combed neatly. She wore a red off shoulder dress up to her thighs and a pair of red heels. Upon taking out her yellow glasses revealed her dazzling blue eyes with a shape form orb of gears which was beautiful.

The woman did look simple and neutral. No pounds of make up, no glittering revealing dress, no high clacking annoying heels nor a light dazzling at the background that could blind them.

Just simple. Neutral. It was a surprise! Most of the workers gasped. Yuichiro turned to check on his father who was stunned with wide eyes. He probably didn't expect for a Kiryuuin girl to be this simple. Ragyo never liked simple things and would always loved the best and perfect. His violet shifting back at the girl, both eyes met.

He loved to stare at those beautiful feared orbs.

The woman at his age beamed a friendly smile to everyone.

"Hello! I'm Ryuko Ma— I mean I'm Ryuko Kiryuuin!"

Chapter 3

"Hello! I'm Ryuko M— I mean I'm Ryuko Kiryuuin!"

Upon seeing the widening eyes and surprise look, the whole lab was silent except the sound of the air conditioning running at the background. Now did messed up her etiquette? All them were so surprised to see her.

Her eyes scanning around the area inside the lab and was grand to be decorated for her. Why the hell would they put on such a grand welcoming when she only came here to ask for help? Her eyes scanning around once more and looked at everyone and raising a finger to all the decorations decorated for her.

"Uh...what's up with the decorations? Is there a ceremony that I'm probably not invited?" Ryuko awkwardly questioned everyone which made all the workers chuckle at her confusion. She did look like an idiot in every comical comedian scene.

Yuan on the other hand was stunned. He didn't expect for a Kiryuuin to dress up very simple. What shocks him more is that, she does look a bit of Soichiro and no wonder where the hell she inherit the beauty. She also looks like Satsuki. Ryuko was probably not aware of any of those dramatic background shit. Yuan seemed happy that she is not like those any Kiryuuin. He also never expect her to be questioning what's up with the decorations.

A smile formed in his lips. "Son, care to welcome her and introduce us formally?" Yuan politely asked his son which he nodded. Yuichiro came approaching the confused ravenette. Part of him was happy that she's not the type of person to be spouting words on the workers. She even made a humor to the workers.

Yuichiro halted in front of her which made Ryuko surprised to his appearance. He gently take her hand and kneeling down in one knee. He pressed his lips on her palm which caused the teen to blush lightly. Another wave of light chuckle from the background boomed.

"My name is Yuichiro Shimomura." He Then faces to the side and pointing his father that was approaching them. "And that is Yuan Shimomura, my father." He introduced. He felt the girl tense as his father came to halt beside him.

Ryuko bowed awkwardly and greeted. "I-It's great to see you, Sir."

"Sir?"

"I-I uh...I mean.."

"Please call me uncle Yuan, dear."

Ryuko looked at them as he tapped her shoulder. A smile was plastered on his face. "You look indeed like a Kiryuuin. But never did I thought for her to be this simple." He commented.

Ryuko's face turned into a slight frown not knowing whether it's a compliment or an insult. "Was that an insult?"

The two seemed to panic and shook their head. "No it's a compliment, Miss Ryuko."

Stunned by his gentlemen side, Ryuko awkwardly smiled again. "Oh okay." She then turned serious and looked over at Yuan and her facial expression softened. "You know I didn't really need this decorating and all, I just really came here to ask help. Regarding to my sister's health." She stayed while lowering her head.

Yuan and Yuichiro had puzzle looks and blinked at the serious tension around them. "Satsuki's health? Then please allow us to lead you to a private room for the private matter." Yuan softly said and turning his back to walk off. Ryuko look up as Yuichiro offered her an arm gesturing for her to hold it.

"Um no thank you." Ryuko politely declined his offer and quickly run off to where Yuan walked off leaving Yuichiro stunned by her unprofessionalism. She is one hell of not liking luxurious which he liked the girl's likings. All workers went back to their work as they notice the serious tension in the atmosphere and with that Yuichiro gone off to where the two went off.

Meanwhile, Yuan was sat in his desk and Ryuko sat in front in a shy mannered. Yuichiro decide to observe her while leaning on his father's desk. The serious tension didn't disappear.

"Now Ryuko, care to explain what happened?"

Ryuko didn't hesitate and began speaking. "Satsuki was positive to have a cancer. There were no medication for her to be cured. And it seems that making one would helps her. This is also related to Life Fiber." She explain.

Both males had their eyes widened in horror. Both were interested to hear. "Care to tell what cancer she has, dear?" Yuan politely asked as Ryuko nodded her head.

"From what I heard on the hologram of my father's speech. Satsuki was one of those failed test subject before and seemed to be occurring Fiber Cancer."

Yuan seemed to be shock. He never thought Soichiro tried fused his daughter with Life Fibers. When he was about to say something, Ryuko spoke again.

"And...I think making medicine to cure my sister would definitely help save her life." She finished staying and hanging her head down. Yuichiro had his eyebrows up with a look of pity. Turning to glance at his father, both of them nodded their heads as a sign to agree helping her. There was hope lit through her heart and tears started to form in her eyes.

"Of course we will help you, dear. Rise your head." Commanding her to lift her head up, Yuan smiled at the raven haired teen. "I was also informed that there are a couple of patients who has the same condition as your sister. Perhaps, it'll have a good profit for the business." He turned his head to take a few files in the drawer and filled it up then handing the brown folder to Ryuko.

She takes a good peek on the folder revealing the info of the project that they're about to make. A medicine that would cure the failed test subject of the Life Fiber infused victims. Ryuko never thought that they would be willing to help her and was expecting a rude comments about her posture. She changed her mind and smiled at the man, Bowing out of respect with a bit of tears streaming down her cheeks.

"Thank you so much!! I'll gladly participate in this project!"

"It will be a good cause. I'm sure we will succeed in no time."

Yuan then turned to Yuichiro who was deep in thought. Knowing he studies medicines in his college, he was sure that it'll be great success for his future too. "What about you, Yu? Are you going to participate in?" Yuichiro snapped out of his mind to turn back his attention to Yuan. His eyes then shifted to Ryuko who is also looking at him.

Of course, he is willing to help her.

"Yes. I guess this will be the biggest challenge ever get. I won't back down on it." Yuichiro gave her a thumbs up and flashes her sweet smile causing the female to look down and shy away. Yuan hum in agreement took out another folder from his desk.

"By the way, Ryuko. If there are any organizations that you are involved into, please let me know and we might team up in order to complete this project." Yuan says, handing the folder again which she carefully take it from him. Ryuko knew it was a partnership contract and there is one organization right inside her mind that might participate in the project. This is all about Life Fibers and she will never ignore this pest.

Ryuko turned serious and determined smile flashes in her face. Once more she bowed, "I'll gladly inform the organization. Thank you very much, miste—I mean uncle Yuan." She then turned her figure to bow on Yuichiro which cause him to jolt. "Thanks for agreeing too." She turned her heels but was stopped by Yuan.

"W-Wait, dear! Are you going? You can stay for a moment and have tea with us." He offered. Ryuko turned her head and flashes them both a genuine smile. "No thank you. It's better if I go sooner. I have many responsibilities to take."

"Well then, have at least my son escort you." Yuan offered. Yuichiro jerked his head to his father who seemed to smile proudly. When he is about to protest—

"Okay." He sigh in defeat and walked off to the door with Ryuko walking by his side.

On their way to the elevator, Yuichiro decide to open up a conversation to ease the awkward silence between them. "Are you by the chance, owner of the Honnoji Academy?" He asked.

Ryuko's eyes glance to him and shook her head lightly. "No. Satsuki owns it and I'm maneuvering it to stable the process of the school. Same goes to the conglomerate company." Ryuko bitterly murmured as she remembered the scene of herself signing and reading a pile of papers in Satsuki's desk. Satsuki should definitely repay her back. Ryuko was never the type of office lady. She's more in to physical things.

"Ah I see. Where do you work?"

"I'm a working student in a local cafe with a friend of mine. I'm still in college to graduate and have a life." She meant of starting a new life after the fight with Ragyo. It definitely pleases her but stressful. Ryuko and Yuichiro did had a good conversation together when they got inside the elevator. She have told her story about Ragyo Kiryuuin and herself fighting in the stratosphere. Yuichiro was of course shock at the news that Soichiro was dead.

Yuichiro did told a few more things about him and his past. He thought it was good thing to know at least a bit of her. Well they both grew comfortable each other in every minute.

When both of them stepped out of the elevator and out of the building, Yuichiro escorted her to the limo at the parking lot. He opened the door for her in manner of gentlemen and flashes a smile at Ryuko. "I did have great conversation with you, Ryuko. Hoping to meet you soon again." He formally stated as they both exchange numbers.

"The same goes to you, Yuichiro."

"Just call me by the name of Yu."

"Okay then, Yu."

Yuichiro flashes her a smile once more before closing the door. The car engine as Ryuko bid a formal wave to Yuichiro and they begin to drove off in the distance.

Ryuko slump her back at the seat and crouched from exhaustion with a long a sigh. "GHAD...just a simple meeting made me exhausted! Also we need proceed at Mikisugi's house." She says and handed the files to Soroi who carefully takes it.

"I'm sure you're not used to luxury life, Lady Ryuko but you did a great impression on them." Soroi complimented as he checked the files inside. Ryuko slid herself more in the seat in more comfortable lazy position.

"Ugh...can you quit calling me in a formal way? It's really uncomfortable."

"Pardon me, but I insist. You are certainly part of Kiryuuin."

"Okay Fine..."

Soroi then poured a tea in the tea cup along with a milk to match the taste and likings of Ryuko. She never liked drinking bitter things and that it came to conclusion that Soroi would be adding milk to it.

Ryuko took the neatly folded jersey jacket and wore it. She begin to read the files of the upcoming project for Satsuki's illness. That's what all she needs. The Shimomura did give a few details for the project and how it's going to work. Ryuko hopes that they would start at such an early time. With all the formalities, she would be needing professionalism in order not to disappoint them. Of course it was hard to sustain her stubborn attitude.

Ryuko give a glance on the window which is they were already outside of the city leading to the countryside on were Mikisugi would prefer living peacefully. In the distance, she could see a little house that I made out of woods. Red roses were surrounded by the front gate as the limo halted. There she saw Mikisugi gardening the crimson roses and is simply wearing a normal attire for the FIRST TIME.

White top long sleeve, gray vest, black pants and some black boots that is used for horse back riding. Ryuko exited the car with Soroi following behind her. She then halt to call him by his name.

"Hey, Mikisugi!"

The blue haired adult turned his head and a beaming smile crept on his lips. "Long time no see, Ryuko! Were you desperate to see me—" a folder was smack in to his face as the furious raven haired marched on his way.

"Well?! How's the research!? I need to know more of the cancer that we are currently researching! I got no time to your bullshits!" Ryuko gloated and crosses her arms.

Mikisugi dropped the hose and took the files giving her a flirtatious look. "Fierce as always. You never change. Regarding to the Fiber Cancer, I obtained a few results in it." Mikisugi's face fell into a serious matter and checked the files that was thrown to him. To his surprise, he didn't expect for a partnership that was offered to him.

"Partnership with the Shimomura's?" He then glance up to look at the annoyed Ryuko who only glared at him. "Did you seriously find some group that would offer me a partnership just to save your sister?"

"Damn right! The Shimomura's were dad's close friend who also research about Life Fibers before he became undercover Isshin Matoi. They are willing to help me recover and cure Satsuki's illness." She said.

The blue haired adult sigh turned his back to walk inside the little house.

"Alright, come inside."

Inside the house, they were sat in the living room some matcha green tea in their hands. Mikisugi handed the notebook that he listed the information about the Fiber Cancer. Ryuko scheme through the notebook and widened her eyes. In the notebook contains, the 5 stages of Fiber Cancer along with the Life Fiber consuming the person's body and being eaten away.

"Fiber Cancer only exist to who are failed test subject in Life Fiber Infusions. The Life Fibers in the body eats away tissue cells and draining the blood of a person. The platelets of the body will turn into tiny threads just like how it visible shows in Satsuki's." Mikisugi explained. He sign every papers that was handed to him and reading about the upcoming project that he is about to participate in.

Both guests were shocked at the information. This time, Mikisugi raised his fingers to count the signs and stages of the Fiber Cancer.

"Stage one: the victim will get heavy abnormal coughs for a week and brings to exhaustion from coughing, this will cause the person to faint." Mikisugi interpret as he raised another finger to show another stage and signs.

"Stage two: the person will be put into a coma for about a month. If the coma leads to 3-5 months then it'll proceed to stage three." Mikisugi says once more. Ryuko's travels to his slender finger as it raised the sign of stage three. Her heart fastened the pace of her beats feeling nervous that whatever dangerous is going on to her sister's body.

"Stage three: just like I said, it'll lead to long coma. Then it'll show signs of thin threads in the victims skin." Raising the fourth finger sign of stage. Her breath hitched and a horrifying look occurred her face.

"Stage four: the body will begin to rot as it will lead the victim's death. Within a month or so, the person will continue rot and turned into nothing but pieces of threads." Mikisugi finished explaining, placing his arms down with a sign as he saw how terrified Ryuko was. The fourth stage terrifies her the most.

She remembered every little thing. The day where Senketsu was rot away and burned leaving him turned into tiny ashes of threads. Ryuko hasn't recovered from the incident and wanting to beat it inside her. Ryuko's body trembled as she runs her hands into her raven locks tangling them into mess. Soroi begin to comfort the younger sister of Satsuki.

"Lady Ryuko, are you alright?" Tears streamed down her cheeks and sniffing. Ryuko didn't want to lose anything anymore especially Satsuki. She would blame all the faults to Ragyo for trying infuse Satsuki with Life Fibers. And if the Life Fibers ever came back, she will kill every last of them.

There were other failed infusion Life Fiber victims and its a serious cause. Gladly, Fiber Cancer doesn't spread virus.

"Damn it... this scene again!" Ryuko bit her lip causing it to bleed a bit. Another thoughts and ideas rushes to her mind as a dark look appeared in her face. Mikisugi and Soroi shuddered at the evil look on her face. "Whatever happens...I'll save my sister...I won't let it happen again!"

Soroi picked up the vibrating phone from his blazer as he answered the caller. "Hello good afternoon, Satsuki's butler. How May I help you?" Soroi politely answered the phone call as Ryuko was paralyzed with her thoughts.

A few more words coming from the line, Soroi handed the phone call to Ryuko who gently accepted it.

"Hello?"

"Ryuko! This is an emergency! There will be meteor approaching the Riko Barn! 7:30pm the meteor will crash onto Mikisugi's house! This is also filled with Life Fibers!!"

Hearing Inumuta interpret with a panic in his voice, Ryuko was alerted and stood up. Riko Barn was where Mikisugi is staying. She wanted to scream out of frustration and more problems were about to occur. Ending the call quickly she handed it back to Soroi as she slammed her fist in the wall making a small crater and cracks.

She greeted her teeth as fierce eyes lit her geared eyed orbs.

"Damn you Life Fibers!!!"

Her rage made Mikisugi went to her side asked in concern. "What's wrong?!" The man halted his tongue as Ryuko shot him a deadly look.

"Life Fibers will invade the Earth again."

Shimomura's Avenue, Fiver Star Hotel

[7:27 P.M]

Yuichiro have ordered deceased dead corpse and deliver it to the Shimomura's Laboratory. He prepared every single laboratory apparatus and chemicals along with dead rotten fibers and some blood tests.

Bottles and books was scattered all over the small desk as a microscope was placed in front of him. He dipped the Fiber into the blood and set it under microscope. Yuichiro undo the eye glasses and leaned down on the microscope.

In the view, blood cells reacted as the dead rotten Life Fiber begin to absorb each blood cells and platelets as it flowed red orange thread. Adding a white liquid chemical, there weren't any positive signs or reaction from the Fiber as it stayed alive.

Turning the book to page 156, He schemed through the paragraphs and poured other chemicals that he made earlier at his house. Negative and no signs of chemical reaction.

Yuichiro was still doing trials and errors with the medicine he made and examining how does the Fiber Cancer would form. Yuan did take a meetings and took care of the other machines that is need to be arrange.

Stretching out from such an exhausting work, Yuichiro got up and went to the balcony with a cup of coffee in his hands. Smiling to himself and thinking the events earlier that happened at the laboratory.

He caught a glimpse of a long huge shooting star at the distance as it landed far off in the city. Before Yuichiro could even blink, there was loud explosion boomed through the surface as it made a little shake in the ground like an earthquake.

People at the bottom of him halt with puzzle looks along with shrieks at the sudden ground movement. The explosion wasn't any ordinary ones and it made him wide eyed.

"What the heck..."

Meanwhile, Ryuko stood tall in front of a large glowing yarn ball at the crater. Floating threads occurred the sky as she glared at the ball in front of her. Elite Four, Mikisugi and Soroi were shock to see the Primordial Original Life Fiber.

It was heavy and massive unlike they saw one from Ragyo. This one is hard to beat and the thread is too thick. Memories flashes in her mind again which made her gritted her teeth.

The Life Fiber came back once again and was upgraded into a whole new level. She wanted to crash it once more as burning passion and hatred consume her.

"You will not...make a single move on this Earth."

Author's Note:

Ugh...I've deleted most of my fanfics and I have trouble finishing them sigh

I will make sure this one will never get deleted.

I have read lots of OC adventure in Kill la Kill fanfictions. So Imma try one :/ Enjoy
